HCER'S STORIES

Dr. Angel On Kei TANG, CKLC Liaison Officer for HC

Stop Wishing Start Doing

It is a privilege for me to join the RC team and become an HCer, allowing me to grow alongside each of you and share in our collective experiences and wisdom. As an HCer, you face countless challenges and opportunities. I want to discuss three fundamental themes: preparation, self-discipline, and the future, encouraging you to embrace the path ahead.

Firstly, opportunity favors those who are adequately prepared. Success is rarely a matter of luck; it is often the natural outcome of hard work. Here, preparation encompasses not only the accumulation of knowledge but also the fortification against future uncertainties. Each lecture, discussion, and assignment is a chance to refine your thinking and enhance your capabilities. Instead of viewing challenges as setbacks, consider them opportunities for personal growth. Each effort you invest is a stepping stone toward future achievements, and this mindset is essential for us all.

Furthermore, it's crucial to embrace your unique journey without constantly comparing it to others. Your contributions, whether in quantity or quality, are invaluable and deserving of recognition. Every bit of hard work builds a new layer of experience that will ultimately transform into an intangible asset. The efforts you make now are shaping an increasingly resilient self, empowering you for the future.

As an HCer, self-discipline will become your most reliable ally on your path to excellence. Self-discipline is not merely a skill; it is a mindset. It allows you to maintain focus amidst numerous distractions and find balance amidst rigorous academic demands. Short-term pleasures can lead us astray, but true fulfillment comes from dedicating time to meaningful pursuits. A disciplined lifestyle increases your efficiency, placing you in a stronger position for both academic achievement and personal growth.

Finally, I want you to remember that every fellow student in the HC reflects a facet of your own journey. We share not just knowledge but also dreams and aspirations. As we pursue excellence together, let us support one another through every challenge and cherish every opportunity for growth.

The road ahead may not always be smooth, but with adequate preparation and a commitment to self-discipline, success will inevitably bloom.

Let us strive together, hand in hand, toward a brighter future. Keep pushing forward!

HCER'S STORIES

Mr. Bingo Cheok Hei CHEANG, HC Graduate, Class of 2025

Thank you, Honours College!

Greetings to whoever is reading this article; I am Bingo, an Honours College graduate from the Class of 2025, and now I am doing my master's at the University of Macau.

Time indeed passes quickly in this circle of life; the four years that I had spent as an HCer ended officially not too long ago, and so much has happened during my time at HC. Looking back at my learning journey in HC, it could be called blissful and truly transformative: I was lucky enough to meet some incredible and kind professors, fellows, and staff, and to acquire valuable knowledge and skills under the rigorous curriculum of HC; I strongly believe that all of the things and moments that I have encountered and been through have had positive contributions to my academic, social, and, in general, personal development.

To be specific, besides all of the memorable events of significance, such as the various camps and retreats held by HC, in which I got to interact and bond with other talents from HC, the most impressive experience I have had in HC has to be the study abroad experience in the UK. Here, I would like to sincerely thank HC for providing me with such an honour and an amazing experience. Recalling my time studying abroad in the UK, not only was I able to immerse myself in a different culture that was extremely eye-opening, but more importantly, I was able to experience a learning environment and modules that may not be available at my home campus, which greatly enhanced my expertise in my areas of interest.

In the end, while I may be unable to meet my previous companions from HC regularly or interact like we used to, I promise the precious moments that we shared would always have a special place in my heart, and I absolutely enjoyed my time at HC. Further, I genuinely hope that all current HC students would be able to achieve what you guys are longing for and make the most out of your time at HC!

NEWS/UPDATES FROM HC ALUMNI

Ms. Agnes Sam Ut WONG, Master of Global Management,
The University of Hong Kong, Graduate of HC of 2025

Exploring Comprehensive Global Business ESG Possibilities in HK

In line with the Macao SAR Government's "1+4" development strategy, the ESG development trend is gaining traction. I am currently pursuing postgraduate studies at the University of Hong Kong, with a particular focus on sustainable ESG development. With some additional trainings in Generative AI and Digital Marketing, I look forward to the opportunity to develop innovative, practical solutions to contribute to the implementation of ESG in Macau. In addition, during my studies in Hong Kong, I discovered that the HC course content, especially the Honours Project, provided me with the essential skills to quickly adapt to the competitive environment of postgraduate studies. This is one of my key takeaways from pursuing higher studies, which has again motivated me to express my gratitude to the Honours College. Therefore, I am eager to participate in forthcoming activities, stay connected, share our unique experiences, and provide assistance to our UM family members and HCers around the world.
